Winner's certificate

Each winner receives comments from their judging panel

"This was a strong example of quantifiable and pioneering benefits which could set the standard for industry more widely. The judges felt the community tensions and particularly the challenge of stakeholder management in that environment was impressive, and the visual presentation, including the 'tree' showed the project in a very inclusive and engagement way. A deserving winner."

Pre-drafted press release sent to each winner, with detail on the category won, brief category description, and a quote from the editor of New Civil Engineer
